

Symptoms of Crohn's Disease

Crohn's disease is a chronic condition that causes parts of the intestine (bowel) to get red and swollen.

Symptoms can include:

- Rectal bleeding
- Persistent diarrhea
- Abdominal cramping and pain
- An urgent need to move the bowels or a sense of incomplete bowel evacuation
- Loss of appetite or weight loss
- Low energy and tiredness
- Delayed growth and development
- Mouth sores, swollen and painful joints, unexplained fevers, rashes

Children's National.